I-9 FORM COMPLETION AND SUPPORTING DOCUMENTS

Dear Authorization Agent,

Emvia, Inc provides Information technology services and resources to client facilities throughout the United States. The nature of our business requires us to hire workers who are not located near our US offices. The Immigration Reform and Control Act (IRCA) requires all U.S. employers to verify the employment eligibility and identity of all employees hired to work in the United States. To meet the requirements of the law, employers are required to complete Employment Eligibility Verification forms (Form I-9) for all employees, including U.S. citizens. A copy of the I9 form is enclosed with this letter.

EMPLOYER'S AGENT. The person presenting the I-9 form to you is a prospective employee of Emvia, Inc. Because it is not physically possible for this person to come to our offices in Plano, TX (Dallas metro) to complete the I-9 paperwork, the U.S. Customs and Immigration Service (USCIS) allows employers to designate agents, such as you, to carry out I-9 responsibilities on their behalf. The law does not allow the employer to carry out I-9 responsibilities by means of documents sent to the employer by fax or through identifying numbers on acceptable documents.

EMPLOYEE MUST COMPLETE SECTION 1 OF FORM. Our employee must complete Section 1 of a Form I-9 in its entirety no later than close of business on his/her third day of work. The employee's signature holds him/her responsible for the accuracy of the information provided. No documentation is required to substantiate Section One information provided by the employee.

AUTHORIZED AGENT MUST COMPLETE SECTION 2. Emvia, as the employer, must review original documents and complete Section 2 of the Form I-9. You, as our agent, can review the documents for us and satisfy the requirement. Again, as stated above, the law does not allow us to mail Forms I-9 to a new employee to complete Section 2 by himself or herself.

Emvia is responsible to ensure proper completion of the entire form. Proper documentation establishes both that the employee is authorized to work in the US and that the employee who presents the employment authorization document is the person to whom it was issued.

The official list of acceptable documents for establishing identity and work eligibility is enclosed with this letter being presented by our prospective employee.

1. You may accept any List A document, establishing both identity and work eligibility.
2. OR, you may accept one document from List B (establishing identity) and one document from List C (establishing work eligibility).

You should examine the document(s) and accept them if they reasonably appear to be genuine and if they reasonably appear to relate to the person before you. Requesting more or different documentation than the minimum necessary to meet this requirement may constitute an unfair immigration-related employment practice. If the documentation presented by an employee does not reasonably appear to be genuine or relate to the employee who presents them, then you must refuse to accept them, and you must ask for other documentation from the list of acceptable documents.

GENUINENESS OF DOCUMENTS. You are not required to be a document expert. In reviewing the genuineness of the documents presented by an employee, employers are held to reasonableness standards.

PHOTOCOPIES OF DOCUMENTS ARE NOT ACCEPTABLE. You cannot accept photocopies of identity or employment eligibility documents to fulfil I-9 requirements. Only the original documents, meaning the actual document issued by the issuing authority, are satisfactory, with the single exception of a certified photocopy of a birth certificate. Please make copies of the documents presented by the prospective employee and send them to us with the completed I-9 form, as we would like to retain photocopies in the employment file.

ENCLOSURES. Thank you for accepting this commission. Enclosed please find the original Form I-9, a sample I-9, the list of acceptable documentation, and a stamped, self-addressed envelope, in which the completed Form and photocopies can be mailed back to Emvia.

Sincerely,

Emvia, Inc
